Physicians United Plan (PUP) makes renovations to local community outreach center

KISSIMMEE, Fla. – (April 1, 2011) – Physicians United Plan (PUP) employees will give back to a valuable community resource on Saturday, April 9, making significant renovations to the Hands of Love Outreach Center located at 1499 John Young Parkway, Kissimmee, FL 34761.

Each week, hundreds of low income families and individuals in the community visit the center to receive application assistance for state programs and Medicaid information. But while Hands of Love has consistently met the needs of others in the community for over 4 years, the building has seen better days.

To make the outreach center as functional as it is hospitable, PUP employees will be joined by friends and family to repaint, redecorate and revitalize the space – including all new graphics and outdoor signs, brand new tile, carpet, tint, and office furniture. Additional donations include electronics, lobby chairs and custom shelving units.

“We’ve seen first-hand how Hands of Love brings hope and joy to so many people in the community. This is an organization that keeps giving and we’re here to support them,” says Gigi Henry, Supervisor of Marketing Operations.
